Executive Appointment at RBC Royal Bank

RBC is pleased to announce that Darryl White has been appointed Chief Executive Officer of RBC Financial (Caribbean) Ltd. (RBCFCL).

The appointment was announced by Rob Johnston, Head, RBC Royal Bank, Caribbean Banking.

In this role, Mr. White brings RBC innovation and solutions to diverse and influential individuals and organizations across the Caribbean. With this increased visibility, he will continue to champion the changing dynamic of banking services and the opportunities and flexibility digital autonomy creates for clients.

Over the course of his 36 years in the financial services industry, Mr. White has held senior management positions in private and public companies with a focus on investments, development and asset management. Mr. White joined Royal Bank Trinidad and Tobago in 2008 as Head, RBTT Merchant Bank, and continued in a similar role after that entity was acquired by the Royal Bank of Canada in 2009. His experience in corporate and investment banking gave him insight into the needs and objectives of the Caribbean community and the challenges faced by developing countries. This experience sensitized him to the critical role banks play in economic development. Appointed to Managing Director, RBC Royal Bank, Trinidad and Tobago in 2013, Mr. White had responsibility for the Bank's overall growth and operating strategies across the region.

Mr. White holds an Honors Bachelor of Science in Management Studies from the University of the West Indies, a Master of Business Administration from the Warwick Business School, University of Warwick, United Kingdom and is an Associate of the Chartered Institute of Financial Services (Cifs), United Kingdom.

Mr. White is a Board Director of the Heroes Foundation and WE Say Yes, both organizations focused on supporting young people in challenged communities. He continues to champion the importance of simple and accessible banking solutions and to deepen the alignment between RBC and the communities it serves and the opportunities, solutions and services it offers.
